DESTROYER'S SCRAP WITH CROSSERS

HOW THE MARY ROSE PLUCKILY FOUGHT THREE ENEMY WARSHIPS.

The following account of the glorious fight of H.M. destroyer Mary Rose, which was sunk in the North Sea on the morning of Oct. 16, at dawn next day, was given by the crew of the ship, which was in charge of a west-bound convoy of merchant ships in the afternoon of Oct. 16. At dawn next day, flashes of gunfire were sighted astern. The captain of the Mary Rose, Lieutenant Charles Fox, who was on the bridge at the time, remarked that he supposed it was a submarine shelling the convoy, and promptly turned his ship to action stations. Mary Rose had increased to full speed, and in a short time three light cruisers were sighted coming towards them at high speed. The Mary Rose promptly challenged, and receiving no reply, opened fire with every gun that would bear, at a range of about four miles. The three light cruisers appeared to have been completely unimpressed by this determined single-handed onslaught, as they did not return the fire until the range had closed to three miles. The Mary Rose then opened fire, and the Mary Rose held gallantly on, through a barrage of bursting shells, until only a mile separated her from the enemy.

Up to this point the German marksmanship was poor, but as the British destroyer turned to bring her torpedoes to bear, the enemy opened fire, bursting in the engine-room and leaving her disabled, a log on the water. All guns, with the exception of the after one, were out of action, and the crew were wounded. The after gun continued in action under the directions of Sub-Lieut. Marsh, R.N.V.R., as long as the gun would bear. The captain came down from the wrecked bridge, and passed aft, encouraging and cheering his deafened men. He stopped beside the wrecked remains of the midship gun, and shouted to the survivors of its crew: "God bless my heart, lads, get her going again, we're not done yet!" The enemy were now pouring a concentrated fire into the motionless vessel. One of the boilers, struck by a shell, exploded, and through the inferno of escaping steam, smoke, and the vapour of bursting shell, came that familiar, cheery voice: "We're not done yet." As the German light cruisers sped past, two able seamen (French and Bailey), who alone survived among the torpedo tube crew, on their own initiative laid and fired the remaining torpedo. French was killed immediately, and Bailey badly wounded.

WITH COLOURS FLYING.

Realising that the night had passed ahead and that the 4th gun could no longer be brought to bear on them, the captain went below and set about destroying his cyphers. The first Lieutenant (Lieut. Bailey), one of the light cruisers returning towards them, called the gunner (Mr. Hancock) and bade him sink the ship. The captain then came on deck and ordered the ship to be hoisted. The boats had been shattered by shell fire at their davits, but the survivors launched a Carley raft and paddled clear of the ship. The German light cruiser, which had administered the coup-de-grace, then approached to within 300 yards, and poured a succession of salvoes into the already riddled hull. The Mary Rose sank at 7.15 a.m. with colours flying.

UP TO THE POINT.

The captain came down from the wrecked bridge, and passed aft, encouraging and cheering his deafened men. He stopped beside the wrecked remains of the midship gun, and shouted to the survivors of its crew: "God bless my heart, lads, get her going again, we're not done yet!" HOW I CURED MY RHEUMATISM.

SOME GOOD ADVICE BY CORPL. T. S. WILBURN OF THE R.A.M.C.

IF stomach, liver or kidney disorders, and in fact most of our bodily ills, rheumatism results simply from accumulation of impurities in the system. Cholesterol, uric acid, and other poisons, which are the result of impurities in the system, are the cause of rheumatism. The only way to stop rheumatism is to drive the poisons out of the system. I used to suffer from rheumatism, and I know better than to recommend purely temporary expedients now. Instead, take a level teaspoonful of alkali salts in water every second morning, before breakfast, and notice how quickly it dissolves and permanently clears out of your system all disease-causing impurities and poisons, and deposits or sharp crystals in stiff joints and sore muscles. There is nothing better to cleanse and regulate a torpid liver, to flush out clogged kidneys. You can get some of this inexpensive, standard compound from any chemist, and I have personally proved that it cures even the most severe case of rheumatism within a few days.—T.S.W.

Music and the Drama

Notes by Apollo

That there is a fascination in the theatre to all those who have been brought up in the public mind, and who have proved over and over again, a great favourite of the public, is a fact which is not likely to change. The fact that the theatre is a place where the public can find a great deal of pleasure, and that it is a place where the public can find a great deal of pleasure, is a fact which is not likely to change.

Miss Lily Elsie, after several years of retirement, has returned to the stage, and has been playing the part of the heroine in "The Foundations" at the Theatre Royal, Covent Garden. Her performance has been very successful, and she has been playing the part of the heroine in "The Foundations" at the Theatre Royal, Covent Garden.

It is interesting to learn that a new opera by a native musician has become the property of the Gramophone Company. The work is by Mr. Stephen Philipps, who is well known as the composer of some charming songs and light music.

I understand that the libretto is founded on the romantic theme of "The Foundations" by the French poet, Alfred Assolant. The libretto is by the French poet, Alfred Assolant. The libretto is by the French poet, Alfred Assolant.

I have not heard yet when the opera will be produced. I expect it will be heard in the provinces, but that is all I can say at the moment.

EXECUTION OF DE STAMIER.

MURDERER'S LIFE OF CRIME.

Although only 25, Arthur H. Victor de Stamier, who was hanged at Wandsworth Prison this week for the murder of Capt. Tighe at Winkfield Lodge, Wimbledon Common, had had a remarkable career of crime. Death is said to have been instantaneous. De Stamier, before the execution, ate a light breakfast, after which he had a long consultation with the prison chaplain, the Rev. A. Hawarden. He was not a statement on the scaffold. Ellis was the executioner.

A life of crime. The murder of Capt. Tighe was the climax of a life of crime. Although only 25, de Stamier had been under the notice of the police in some form or another since he was a boy. Born in London of French parents, he gave trouble from an early age. Before he was 14 he had been over on a charge of stealing. When a boy he was charged with burglary at Crofton and sent to a reformatory school for three years, where an effort was made to teach him a trade. On his release he returned to his parents, who did their best to give him a new start. His hopes were ruthlessly swept aside, and de Stamier (whose real name was Stamirovski) disappeared from home. Some months later he was heard of in prison in Australia. He had signed on an ocean-going liner and abandoned the ship at Sydney. After having committed a robbery he was sentenced to a term of imprisonment. Upon his release he travelled about the country, again coming under the notice of the police for various offences. Then he disappeared. He was not heard of again until one morning he arrived at his parents' home in London. His parents offered to forgive him if he would try to "make good," but he refused.

Turned away from home. His father told him that he was bringing disgrace upon them, and that he must leave the house. De Stamier packed up a few belongings and went, being told that his parents would do nothing more to do with him until he gave a promise to reform. He broke out, and he enlisted in the County of London Yeomanry, and was sent to prison for military offences. He deserted within a few weeks, was recaptured, and again deserted. Handed over by the civil police, he was punished, but it seemed to have no effect upon him. Three-quarters of the time he was with his unit he was in prison for military offences, including threatening his superior officer. He escaped from detention, and did not return. He occupied lodgings in the Strand, and was charged with committed thefts as a means of earning a living. In many of them he showed the daring and the ingenuity of a practised thief, and escaped arrest. He was charged with committed thefts as a means of earning a living. Warning to film companies. A warning to film companies was given at Bow-st. when film agencies, Ltd., Charing Cross-road, were fined £20 and five shillings for allowing a film to be shown in a room which was not a cinema. The conditions should be observed in these days, when there were exceptional reasons for apprehending danger from fire.

THREE CINEMA A NIGHT.

When Leslie Smith, 12, of Herne-road, was charged at Kingston upon Thames Police Court, on Monday, with the theft of a bicycle, it was stated that he and another lad went to Clapham Junction and visited three picture palaces, where they stole a bicycle. They bought chocolate and a detective story. They reached home with three bicycles, and a bicycle was found.

NEW THEATRE CO.

A company, under the title of the G. and L. Theatre Co., Ltd., has been registered with a capital of £20,000, which has been subscribed in full by Messrs. Goldsmith and Laurillard and their friends. The object of the company is to produce plays at His Majesty's Theatre after the run of "Chu Chin Chow."

THE NATION ON RATIONS IN MAY.

DELAY IN ISSUE OF CARDS FOR LONDON AND HOME COUNTIES.

Lord Rhondda's plans for national rationing are rapidly maturing, and it is hoped to have a comprehensive scheme in force early in May. The next step is to apply the 1s. 3d. butchers' meat ration to the whole country.

Although there has been a delay in the issue of cards under the London and Home Counties scheme, it is hoped to have them all delivered by Monday.

HOME COUNTIES SCHEME.

10,000,000 Food Cards.

It is anticipated that within the next few days nearly 10,000,000 people will have received their food cards, by which, from Feb. 25, they will buy their butter or margarine and their meat ration. The cards will be issued by the local authorities, and will be valid for the first day of the month. A BRITISH TANK "DOING ITS BIT."

The kind of obstacles our tanks have to encounter on the West front will be realised from the above picture. By clearing away barbed wire entanglements previous to an advance, thousands of lives have been saved. It is presumably a "trump card" for painted on its side is an ace of hearts.

THE ROYAL PALACES.

Truth About the King's Offer.

The King's sole anxiety is, and has been all along, to do his best for the nation and for the men of his fighting forces, and no consideration of personal convenience has been, or will be, entertained by his Majesty. How keen the King is to "pull his weight" with his subjects in winning the war is shown by his Majesty's offer to the nation to share the same hardships as the fighting forces. His Majesty has offered three of his palaces for war purposes, and is as anxious to share the same hardships as the fighting forces. Grass & Ships.

Advocating the ploughing up of grass lands, Mr. Prothero said that if we were able to raise from ploughed-up lands an extra million tons of essential grain we should be able to set free a very large amount of tonnage to bring a million tons to this country. That would require 300 ships of an average draught of 5,000 tons. If the land were left as grass, and meat was produced on it, the amount would be something like 75,000 tons, which could be carried in 40 ships.

Advocating the ploughing up of grass lands, Mr. Prothero said that if we were able to raise from ploughed-up lands an extra million tons of essential grain we should be able to set free a very large amount of tonnage to bring a million tons to this country. That would require 300 ships of an average draught of 5,000 tons. If the land were left as grass, and meat was produced on it, the amount would be something like 75,000 tons, which could be carried in 40 ships.

THE TOLL OF THE U-BOATS.

13 BIG SHIPS SUNK LAST WEEK.

Thirteen large British steamers were sunk last week—an increase of three over the previous week. The official figures are as follows:—
Over 1,000 tons 13
Under 1,000 tons 6

U-Boats Off Norway.

Numerous U-boats and some large destroyers are reported to have been sighted off the southern coast of Norway. An incident which perhaps surpasses in coolness anything the U-boat commanders have yet done has occurred at the Spanish Canary Islands, on one of which German landings took place. The mayor of the island, told him until he had proved that two U-boats were interned at Tenerife and not on his own island. Further, the U-boat was not to be allowed to leave the island until the U-boat was interned at Tenerife and not on his own island.

OLD DESTROYER LOST.

H.M. destroyer Boxer was sunk on the night of Feb. 8 in the Channel as the result of a collision. One boy is missing. The Boxer was one of the oldest of British destroyers, launched in 1884. She was of 280 tons, and was armed with one 12-pounder and five small guns.

BABY IN A WASHTUB.

D.C.M. Charged with Murder. A partially sequestered wife's unfaithfulness while her husband was fighting for his country is reported from Carlisle Hill, near Nottingham. It appears that the wife, who was in the Sherwood Forests, returned home on leave to find that his wife was the mother of an illegitimate infant. The woman had admitted the fact to her husband, but he had not believed her. The couple had previously lived together quite happily, and it is said that when he arrived home on leave he found a fortnight ago that his wife had been unfaithful to him. He had won at Cambray by rescuing a wounded comrade, he petted the child and said it was "a nice little fellow." He had been looking out each day for the news that his medal was being sent on, and for the public presentation which had been arranged to follow. The infant was found in a washtub.

Before the Magistrate.

Pole was later brought before the local court and charged with killing his wife's illegitimate child, a baby not quite 12 months old. It was alleged that, while his wife was out, he had put the child in a washtub and placed the heavy part of a chair over its head. He then, it was stated, went to his parents' home at Netherfield, where he was apprehended. The child was found in a washtub. The case was heard by the local court.

King George's Dream.

In one respect the King's decision to resign Buckingham Palace may not be unconnected with his tastes. Lord Salisbury, who is known as the intimate friend and confidant of our three late Sovereigns, revealed in 1912 that King George's dream "is to pull down Buckingham Palace to build a new residence for the Sovereign." It is a bold scheme, but if for the next year or two Buckingham Palace were occupied as public offices, it is quite likely that the Court would not return there, and then the way would be open for such a scheme as was here suggested.

Other Royal Residences.

In the days of the Georges St. James's Palace was the Royal abode, and it has now been taken up and let to many tenants to be suitable for the occupation of the King, who by a legal fiction only resides at the Court of St. James's. Marlborough House has been taken up and let to the Duke of Devonshire. White Lodge, in Richmond Park, has been granted to Lord Farquhar, and there is no other suitable place for the King's residence in the metropolis. Sandringham is too far away for his Majesty to occupy it at a time when his presence in town is frequently necessary on affairs of State, and it is world weary to be probable that he will be compelled to reside at Windsor if the Government take advantage of his offer, and utilise the two palaces for other than the residence of the King. The King would not be in residence.

V.C. DROWNED.

The death of a distinguished soldier, R.E.A., the 19th recipient of the V.C. during the present war. He lost his life in the sinking of a ship in the Mediterranean on 29 while returning to Egypt after his marriage, which took place at Littlehampton in October.

HOW HE TREATS LUCKLESS BRITISH PRISONERS.

HOW HE TREATS LUCKLESS BRITISH PRISONERS.

Below we give an extract from the letter of an English sergeant, now, fortunately, a Swiss citizen. He has been a prisoner of war in Germany since the battle of Mons. Our readers will be able to compare the treatment of this man and his countrymen with the treatment of British prisoners in this country, and note the contrast. My health has improved greatly since I have been here, and my skin trouble has nearly vanished, since I have had medicine because in Germany they have absolutely nothing in the medicine line. They have only four drugs for the prisoners. If one goes sick with a chest complaint, abscess, or perhaps a bad leg, they give him an aspirin substitute, and send him back to work as usual. In my camp several men were forced to work in the coal mines, and on this work they were nearly killed. They were sent to their deaths, and if they did not complete their task they were sent to the gas chambers. I have seen many British prisoners who were sent to the gas chambers. I have seen many British prisoners who were sent to the gas chambers.

Ladies! Try this! Doubles Beauty of your hair in a few moments.

A black and white portrait of a woman with dark, wavy hair, looking slightly to the side. The image is a close-up, focusing on her head and shoulders. The hair is styled in a voluminous, wavy manner, typical of early 20th-century fashion. The woman has a soft expression, and her features are delicately drawn. The background is plain and light-colored.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but it will please you most will be that it is a sure cure for itching scalp. New hair, fine and downy at first— but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No matter how dull, faded, brittle and frizzy, just use it when you see it. Wash and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy, and wavy, and have an appearance of
